

March 16, 2020

Dear Customers,

Please be aware that Excel Business Systems is treating the current COVID-19 situation very seriously and that the health and safety of our employees, customers and suppliers remains our primary concern.

Considering the latest events surrounding the coronavirus (COVID-19) and following the recommendations made by various governments and health agencies, we have implemented preventive measures to limit the transmission of the virus.

Excel Business Systems strives to be at the forefront of technology and has already implemented several digital business tools, which we are proud to be able to remain proactive and responsive to our clients' needs, in times of crisis.

Service calls

Our technicians will be extra vigilant during their service visits. They will follow clear instructions regarding the complete cleaning of your equipment. In addition, our teams are equipped with effective sanitation products and are focused on hygienic protection.

We will follow developments and apply government recommendations and we will be sure to keep our clients informed of any further significant changes to our operations.

Thank you for your understanding.

Bob Becker
President
Excel Business Systems